

Korean
1064
r. Gunn ~~Choy Kim~~, a Korean, 37 years old, has been in America for 24 years. Born in the city of Shanghai in China, he came over to America with his father in the year 1912 on the steamship Tenyo Maru, a Japanese liner. Mr. ~~Kim~~'s father, previous to coming over with his son in 1912, has been working in America as a house-cook for a family in Sacramento for seven years, and prior to that he had worked for another family in San Francisco for a year. Mr. ~~Kim~~'s father's purpose in bringing ~~Mr. Kim~~ over to America was to enable him to so that he could get a good education. For six years following his arrival in this country ~~Mr. Kim~~ attended school in San Francisco, but when his father passed away in 1919, leaving him just a little money, ~~Mr. Kim~~ was left to make his own living. ~~Mr. Kim~~'s first job was that of selling ~~a~~ herb, that originally came from Korea, for a Chinese firm in San Francisco. His job carried him up and down the state of California and he became well-known to most of the Oriental merchants in the state. but After six years of selling herbs and not making as much money as he expected ~~Mr. Kim~~ decided to try other fields to earn a living. He Liking the barber trade he became an apprentice to a Korean barber in San Francisco. After a year of apprenticeship, ~~Mr. Kim~~, with the money he saved as a salesman, opened a shop of his own. Business became so good that within two years he had two other Korean barbers working for him. ~~Mr. Kim~~ now still has a shop on Clay St. with one barber working with him. ~~Mr. Kim~~ states that during the present depression he has just been

Digitized by the Internet Archive in 2024 with funding from National Historical Publications and Records Commission

<https://archive.org/details/SFH23-0041> able to make things come out even, with the prices of hair-cutting, shampoo and shave being cut down until there is hardly any profit in it. For example, price of haircut used to be sixty-five cents now it is only forty cents, shave thirty-five, now cut down to twenty-five cents, ~~and~~ etc. Mr.

~~He~~ K claims that whereas customers used to come about once a week they now come in about once in two weeks; also, that most of the customers instead of having their shampoo and shave done by their barbers now do it themselves at home and tips which he used to get often, he scarcely gets at all now.

2-6-2
The first thing I noticed when I stepped out of the car was the cold. It was a sharp contrast to the warm blanket I had been sitting under. I looked around and saw a few other people standing in the same way, waiting for the train. The air was thick with the smell of coal and the sound of the train whistles in the distance. I shivered and pulled my coat tighter around me. The train finally arrived, and I stepped onto the platform. The cold was still there, but it felt a little less intense now. I looked at my watch and saw that it was already ten o'clock. I had to hurry. I ran towards the entrance of the building, my breath coming in short gasps. The door was open, and I stepped inside. The warmth of the room was a relief. I took a deep breath and looked around. The room was large and empty, with a few chairs and a table. I walked towards the table and saw a small note pinned to it. I picked it up and read it. It was a letter from my mother, telling me that she was well and hoping that I was too. I smiled and put the letter back on the table. I looked at my watch again and saw that it was now eleven o'clock. I had to go. I walked towards the door and opened it. The cold was back, but I didn't mind. I stepped outside and looked at the stars in the night sky. They were so bright and beautiful. I took a deep breath and felt a sense of peace. I was home.

664
CHOY KIM, a Korean, 37 years old has been in America for 24 years. Born in the city of Shanghai in China he came over to America with his father in the year 1912 on the steamship Tenyo Maru, a Japanese liner. Mr. Kim's father previous to coming over with his son in 1912, has been working in America as a house-cook for a family in Sacramento for seven years, and prior to that had worked for another family in San Francisco for a year. Mr. Kim's father's intention in bringing Mr. Kim over to America was so that he could get a good education. For six years following his arrival in this country Mr. Kim attended school in San Francisco- but when his father passed away in 1919 leaving him just a little money- Mr. Kim was left to make his own living. Mr. Kim's first job was that of selling an herb that originally came from Korea, for a Chinese firm in San Francisco. His job carried him up and down the state of California and he became well-known by most of the Oriental merchants in the state--but after six years of selling herbs and not making as much money as expected Mr. Kim decided to try other fields to earn a living. Liking the barber trade he became an apprentice to a Korean barber in San Francisco. After a year of apprenticeship Mr. Kim, with the money he saved as a salesman opened a shop of his own. Business became so good that within two years he had two other Korean barbers working for him. Mr. Kim now still ^{has} have a shop on Clay St. with one barber working with him. Mr. Kim states that during the present depression he has just been able to make things come out about even-- with the prices of haircutting, shampoo and shave being cut down until there is hardly any profit in it. For examples-price of haircut use to be sixty-five cents now it is only forty cents, shave thirty-five now cut down to twenty-five cents, and etc. Mr. Kim claims that whereas customers use to come about once a week they now come in about once in two weeks--also that most of the customers now instead of having their shampoos and shaves done by their barbers now do it themselves at home and tips which he used to get often, he scarcely get at all now.

F. Gunn

had just been able to make things come out about even-- with the prices of haircutting, shampoos and shave being out. down until there is hardly any profit in it. For example--price of haircut was to be sixty-five cents now it is only forty cents, shave, thirty-five now cut down to twenty-five cents, and etc. Mr. Kim claims that whereas customers used to come about once a week they now come in about once in two weeks--also that most of the customers now instead of having their shampoo and shave done by their barbers now do it themselves at home and tips which he used to get often he scarcely get at all now.

